

Scope of Services

The MWH Product Liability attorneys take a proactive approach to vigorously protect commercial entities from lawsuits alleging defective products. We possess an acute understanding of the potential risks associated with the creation and/or distribution of products and are determined to identify and mitigate those risks before claims arise. Our team makes it a priority to stay up to date on relevant representative cases and industry trends to provide comprehensive legal counsel regarding safety and regulatory compliance. We assist clients throughout the life cycle of a product, from inception, including counsel regarding product design, to labeling, warnings and disclaimers, warranties, and more.

MWH has the experience to handle product liability litigation in Iowa, Illinois, and Wisconsin. Our seasoned trial attorneys provide legal assistance from the date of loss through the resolution of claims/litigation. We have experience in working with experts and participating in both fire inspections and inspections of defective products. We also have experience in working with experts to develop destructive and non-destructive testing protocols related to the testing of product and/or parts. Our attorneys have handled all phases

- Product Liability Litigation Including, but not Limited to:
 - Medical and Hospital Equipment and Furniture
 - Cranes and Other Construction Equipment
